

WEDS 19 HOURS AFTER DIVORCE

Violinist Parisi Marries the
"Other Woman" His Wife
Had Kissed.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—Sig. Guido Parisi, well-known violinist, and Miss Martha Belle Scogin, the "Martha" of Mrs. Marie Parisi's famous diary, were married by Justice Cronin in his office yesterday, just nineteen hours after Judge Sale had granted to the musician's first wife the divorce decree which freed the husband.
Meeting at Sig. Parisi's studio, they rode to City Hall on a trolley car and walked thence to the Justice's office, hastening to return that the bridegroom might keep an engagement with a pupil for a lesson before luncheon.
The time for the ceremony was agreed on in a conversation between Sig. Parisi and Miss Scogin by telephone immediately after the violinist learned yesterday afternoon that his wife had obtained her divorce decree.
Sig. Parisi did not appear in court at the divorce hearing, and his wife was the only witness. She told of her voyage to Europe last summer, in which Miss Scogin, under the name of Mrs. Mary Jones, was a passenger on the same steamer with her and her husband, of the meetings between the two in Paris and Naples, and of his final avowal that he could not be happy without the young woman, with whom he had become acquainted as her instructor.
In the diary Mrs. Parisi tells how she agreed to give her husband over to "the other woman," who thanked her, and they kissed.

BURNING WIRES RING ALARM. Set Fire to Flat-House and Start Door Bells Buzzing.

All the electric bells in the six-story double-decker flat-house at No. 315 East Twenty-sixth street started to buzz simultaneously yesterday afternoon. The tenants pushed the buttons to open the front door, but the bells kept on ringing. Several people went to the front door, and although they could still hear the buzzing throughout the house, nobody was in sight. They thought the mechanism had stuck, stuck pins in the electric buttons in the vestibule.
Mrs. Josephine La Fortune, the landlady, then found a fire was blazing in the cellar. The flames were extinguished quickly.
Firemen found that defective insulation of electric wires running across the ceiling of the cellar had set fire to the woodwork. The action of the fire on the wires caused all of the bells to go off.

Suits and Overcoats for Men at $15, $18 and $20 That Demonstrate Superior Value

The average lay man has very little knowledge of the composition of fabrics. It is a sorry condition that leads so many stores to trade upon this lack of knowledge. To be sure, every man buys his suit or overcoat largely on faith. Confidence is the keynote of his patronage.

In face of the fact that the better grade of woollens are more costly than ever, we maintain the same standard that has characterized these stores for half a century—none but the purest of all wool fabrics are tolerated. When to this is added the best of good style and tailoring and large assortments to choose from in the new winter models in suits and overcoats, we are justified in claiming our $15, $18 and $20 suits and overcoats superior values.
